1.	1. the rights of workers in the Lithuanian SSR
f	Right of complaint; labor disputes; working conditions; position of officials; mobility of labor; new job formalities; dismissal formalities; holidays; and attitude of workers toward the State.					25X1
r a. a. b	the legal right of complaint of Soviet workers is being upheld in the courts. This fact has encouraged workers to use this right. Managements remote from political centers are beginning to take into account the worker's right of complaint, and, as a result, working conditions are improving. How the workers feel about the regime is still not clear, but if economic conditions continue to improve, the majority of workers may favor the regime.					25X1
